The screenshot shows the HEFCE website header with navigation links: About us, Contact us, Email alerts, RSS, and Follow. The main navigation bar includes Home, What we do, Publications & Reports, Data & Statistics, News & Events, and a search box. The breadcrumb trail is Home > Research > Open access research. A green 'Policy Guide' button is visible. The main heading is 'Open access research'. The text below states: 'Following extensive consultation, the four UK higher education funding bodies have introduced an open-access requirement in the next Research Excellence Framework.' Below this is a horizontal menu with buttons for 'Open access research', 'Policy', 'What is open access?', 'Monographs', and 'FAQ'. The 'Policy' button is highlighted. The main content area is titled 'Open access and research assessment' and contains the text: 'The core of the policy is that journal articles and conference proceedings must be available in an open-access form to be eligible for the next REF. In practice, this means that these outputs must be uploaded to an institutional or subject repository.' A link 'See full details of the policy' is provided. On the right, under 'Related content', there are links for 'Infrastructure: libraries and museums' and 'Review of REF2014'.
